

Contact:

Andrew Goss
VOXUS, Inc.
253.853.5151 x224
agoss@voxuspr.com

ProTrials Co-founder Jodi Andrews Elected to The Committee of 200

Mountain View, CA – April 7, 2008 – ProTrials Research, Inc.TM, a leader in the clinical research organization industry, today announced that co-founder and CEO Jodi Andrews has been elected to The Committee of 200. Based in Chicago, C200 is an international organization of more than 450 women executives and entrepreneurs collectively controlling more than $100 billion in annual revenue. Its purpose is to improve the opportunities for women business leaders, to effect legislative change and to research issues relevant to women in business.

Business Week once called The Committee of 200 “the most high-powered organization you’ve never heard of.” The founding members’ roster of the 25+ year old organization reads like a veritable “Who’s Who” of some of the most celebrated names in business: Katharine Graham of the Washington Post, Sherry Lansing of 20th Century Fox, Patricia Cloherty of Patricof & Co. Ventures, Inc., Christie Hefner of Playboy Enterprises, and Muriel Siebert of Muriel Siebert & Co.

Andrews was invited to join the elite C200 on the strength of ProTrials’ business success and her personal accomplishments. In order to qualify, the entrepreneur’s organization must have annual revenues in excess of $15 million; the prospective member must also have a track record of industry leadership.

In 2008, ProTrials attained certification as a woman-owned business by the Women’s Business Enterprise National Council. Last year, the San Jose Business Journal named ProTrials one of the top 50 Women Owned Businesses in Silicon Valley and ranked it ninth in overall size.

About ProTrials Research, Inc.

Founded in 1996, ProTrials Research, Inc. is a specialized clinical research organization (CRO) with regional clinical research associates and project managers based throughout North America, Canada, and Europe. The company works with clients in the pharmaceutical, biotechnology and medical device industries, providing cost-effective site monitoring, project management and associated clinical operations services. ProTrials is headquartered in Mountain View, California. For more information, visit www.protrials.com or call (650) 864-9180.